1. parallelism—repetition of the same grammatical structure
   - We came, we saw, we conquered.
   - She likes apples, cookies, and chips.
   - On the house, they danced. Over the moon, they laughed. At the store, they cried.

2. paralipsis—referring to something by suggesting that it not be mentioned
   - Let's not talk about her bad grades.
   - Don't even get me started on how you acted yesterday.
   - Try not to think about ice cream.

3. alliteration—repetition of the same sound at the beginning of words
   - Suzy sells sea shells...
   - Delightful Dan danced around the den.

4. anaphora—repetition of the same word(s) at the beginning of several phrases, clauses, or paragraphs.
   - We came, we saw, we conquered.
   - Tomorrow, we will try. Tomorrow, we will fight. Tomorrow, we will win.

5. anastrophe—inverted syntax. Odd placement of words.  Yoda
Learn, you will. (Instead of “You will learn.”)
6. chiasmus—inverted syntax that uses the same words or ideas.
   Ask not what your country can do...
   It's not the size of the dog in the fight...
   A + B.....B + A
7. personification—giving life to inanimate objects or ideas
   The test mocked me as my confidence wilted.
8. reification—removing life or reducing humanity from a person (reduction)
   Timmy's personality earned him the nickname “Robot.”
   You eat like a pig.
9. onomatopoeia—words that convey sound
   Bam! She excitedly slapped the desk when she found out that she would be writing a timed writing during class. “Pow, pow! I'm going to dominate this essay,” she declared.
10. epizeuxis—immediate repetition of the same word
    No, no, no. You may not ask me to prom.
    “I want to go to the mall. Mall, mall, mall!” the child yelled.